4. The Marimurtra Botanical Garden

A Garden with History

The Marimurtra Botanical Garden, the botanical garden of the Costa Brava, is a privileged place where you can enjoy its rich botanical, architectural, landscaping and human heritage. A paradise of the plant kingdom that, thanks to its geographical context, is closely related to the Mediterranean Sea.

Marimurtra stretches like a huge wild garden devoted to the plant kingdom. Its four hectares are divided into three different gardens housing over 4,000 plant species.

The garden was created more than ninety years ago by Carl Faust [1874-1952], a German businessman established in Catalonia who, led by his passion for natural sciences and following the advice of the most eminent botanists of his time, devoted his efforts and fortune to his dream, the Marimurtra Botanical Garden.

The Garden was classified as Cultural Asset of National Interest by the Generalitat de Catalunya and in 2009 it was awarded the Creu de Sant Jordi.

5. Acknowledgements

The Carl Faust Foundation is responsible for managing and preserving the Marimurtra Botanical Garden. Carl Faust created the foundation and entrusted it with the responsibility of keeping up his botanical garden and continuing his scientific work.

Keeping up a botanical garden is a huge challenge, but it is possible thanks to the people who trust us and believe in our cause.

This is why we want to thank you all for having thought of this beautiful spot on the Costa Brava. Thanks to you we can keep on enjoying this natural spectacle.
